Jungle Dreams

By Mona Morrow

HER throat parched, Lola's hand went out eagerly for the tumbler of cold, sparkling water. But as she lifted it, her eyes caught sight of a tall young man entering the dining room of the Pocono Beach Club, and the tumbler halted in mid-air.

He was an exceptionally handsome young man with keen gray eyes, dark-brown hair and strong, bronzed features. He was broad of shoulder and slim of waist. There was something heroic in his walk and in his carriage. He seemed to suggest the adventurer, the man who explored the untrodden regions of the world.

As Lola's violet eyes followed him, an odd warmth swept over her and she felt a curious trembling. All tiredness from the morning's sports vanished. She suddenly became charged with excitement while her heart increased its normal beat.

Her aunt, Mrs. John Cromwell, sitting opposite her at the small table, regarded her questioningly. "Do you know him, Lola?"

Lola turned her bright golden head. Her face was flushed and her eyes sparkled. "Not yet, Aunt

NUMBER 30
for R. E. M. D.
for September 17 = 23, 1970.

Radio Station KTAO broadcasts at 95.3 mHz, mostly 24 hours a day, from Los Gatos, California. The signal squirts (electronic toothpaste) from the grey-brown peak known as Mount Umunumhumm, putting our signal into most of Santa Clara County and the lower Bay area. Our daytime programming consists of ethnic, classical, folk and jazz---and the evening programming is jazz, folk, blues, and rock.

This program guide in your hands right now is one of a thousand mailed out each week to those who subscribe to it at $15 a year, $7.50 (for 9 months, for those in love, in bed, in jail, or in comunicado), and $1 per month for those incapable of keeping their books (or their minds) in order. Or, if you are terribly clever, and slip in the door of KTAO late each Thursday afternoon when the guides are delivered from the hot hands of David Moody of 3D Printing, you can probably get one for free. Extra copies are available by calling Flanders 4-4711, and asking for Wookums.

People who care for our programming are encouraged to visit our sponsors and say they love us and spend money so that our sponsors will spend more money with us and make that terrible stack of bills go away for good. The following are current sponsors on KTAO:

AND ONCE AGAIN, A BRIEF TREATISE ON YOUTH, REBELLION, RESISTENCE, DEATH, AND THE PROPER USE OF BAG-

GIES

ON THE KTAO ELEVEN AM TALK AND INTERVIEW SHOW, we recently met with a young man who had returned from serving for 8 weeks with the Venceremos Brigade, cutting cane in Cuba. He still seemed filled with the usual revolutionary ardor, and mixed with the usual questions about how brainwashed he had become, and how subtly he had been propagandized---we made this comment: "How fortunate it is for all the rabble-rousers like you that the United States Government has supplied you with a convenient island near-by for you to run away to. It's a no-no to go to Cuba, and you know it, and the CIA and the FBI know it, and yet if you go and stay the requisite time and come back, no-one will chop off your hand or your head. You will have satisfied the innate juvenile need to defy authority, to outrage your parents, to supply all the redneck Senators and Representatives for the ammunition they need against American education and American youth.

"In addition, you will have met and tangled with some weird revolutionaries, tasted the forbidden fruit, and worked your ass off in some mosquito-infested swamp an hour's drive in some from far and near. The latest news, market and weather reports now broadcasted by radio by our Government. Stations all about you rickety bus from Havana.

"In fact, I would go so far to say," in conclusion, we said, having turned the usual grouchy interview program into a lecture: "If there were no Cuba for all you angry revolutionaries to run off to once a year, I would suggest you would have to invent one." Some deserted part of northern Mexico, or an ice-encrusted commune in the Yukon. Some place which the disenchanted could show scorn for family, flag, and fatherland by working like hell for some obscure and patently anti-American cause. Testing the elasticity of free speech, and free movement, and ideals; somewhat disappointed when the result of the experiment is not being incarcerated, or having hot nails shoved into the tender parts of the finger---but instead, there is nothing but an official frown, and growl, and nothing more.

We were, of course, suffering from the usual hyperbole that seems to descend on the studio each weekday morning at eleven. Because, when you come right down and think about it, there is---during the long hot summer of student malaise---hardly anything else to do besides run off to some island and cut cane. Because this Christly society and its business ethic and its 19th Century laissez-faire attitude towards the unemployed --- seems to be intent (as far as the young are concerned) on fomenting the most revolutionary, bomb-throwing, anarchy-preaching, marching, screaming, rock-throwing bunch of trouble-makers since the Czar sighed, patted his lips with a fine Holland linen kerchief, and stated that he was not about to recognize the Council of the Boyers.

From our own particularly proctological vantage point here at KTAO, we have watched an army of youth---ranging in age from 13 - 23 ---storm the door begging for work, any work, work in any form, paid or no. And we

Crystal Detector Set

1—As a beginner's outfit and for amateurs living near some broadcasting station the crystal detector set, costing around $25, is simple to adjust. This set consists of a tuning coil, a fixed condenser and phones. The receiving range of these crystal detector sets, even with a good aerial, is usually limited to 25 miles.

No. 3

Sets for around $75

2—These outfits, popular with beginners, will tune more closely to the wave lengths you wish to hear than will the "crystal" sets. The cabinet contains the variocoupler, single variable condenser and vacuum tube with filament current control. Outside range, 50 to 100 miles. A loudspeaker cannot be used satisfactorily with this or set No. 3 unless very near a broadcasting station.

A 200-Mile Range for $125

3—Receiving sets in the class of that shown at left cost about $125 and comprise a tuning device connected with a vacuum tube detector. If connected with an outside aerial of proper design, it should pick up radio-telephone messages from stations 200 miles distant.

Outfits over $225 Use Loudspeakers

4—For $225 and up, the finest sets are obtainable, using a loudspeaking device as shown at the right. With a set of this type, containing an excellent tuning unit and two stages of audio frequency amplification, broadcasting stations 500 miles away and, under good conditions, two or even three times that distance, should be heard.

figure that this society, with its eighty billion dollar kill-em-in-the-mud budget should certainly find something a bit more creative for the young to do, outside of the 'learning experience' of being invited to participate in the fireworks of a real war somewhere over there to the right 8000 miles.

And if this society can loathe, degrade, befoul, and retch on the young by not giving them the generosity and hope of a good, hard, paying job somewhere --- then you and I have no cause to sit around and bemoan the young blowing up colleges, swallowing mind-spinning amounts of LSD, and running off somewhere, anywhere, even a sweaty canefield off the coast of Florida in order to participate in real, live work, with real live people, buying gasoline to drag around dead horses and a real live cause. Any elected representative who votes another ten or twenty billion for the spawning of another highway, or another missile, or a miracle 2000 mile an hour jetliner --- is contributing to the destruction of the system he squanders and our well-being by ignoring this strangely vociferous, angry, worried, lonely, anguished group called The Young. By giving them no jobs, no respect, no hope --- he diminishes the hope and respect of all of us.

One of our friends claim that the young, those between 16 and 24, are the new niggers. And its true: all the hard, backbreaking, hopeless, dull, meaningless jobs are being done by the longhairs. Here in California, they shovel the dirt, drive the mailtrucks (and sort the mail), tote the barge, lift the bales. The choice they know is between this (legitimate) work, or participating in the perfect capitalist ideal (no tax, all-the-traffic-will-bear, long working hours) of dealing in drugs.

They are the new Black---these juveniles. All the backbreaking, stinking jobs. Living sub rosa ---at the very edge of the law --- with their barely tolerated tastes in drugs. The longhairs: a neatly persecuted group, considered to be slightly short of human by the operatives who run this strange warped society called 20th Century Amurica.

Ask any of them---those who hitch-hike especially. They'll tell you their perfect acceptance into the role of the degraded minority. Ask them the common requests laid on them by the truckers, the insurance executives, the salesmen who give them rides. They aren't being given a much needed lift from San Jose to Santa Cruz, or from Berkeley to Seattle because of the innate generosity of these typical Americans in the 1969 General Motors Road Busters because the salesmen, the businessmen are trying to help them get from here to there without creating more smog.

Of course not: it can't be. Especially when you realize that the most common question asked of them by these most common businessmen in their most common pursuits is: "Hey, say, buddy. (slightly nervous pause). Do you have a ... a girl-friend, maybe, that I could meet. Maybe (unh) we could get some sort of a three-way thing going." And the engineer, or technician, or insurance executive steps on the accelerator a bit, smooths back his half-inch cut hair (with regulation sideburns) a bit, coughs, smiles nervously. "Yeah," he says: "We could get together, you and your girl-friend and me, over my place, I got a nice house up in San Leandro. No-one's there right now (my little woman's gone to LA for the weekend) and we could try some stuff (maybe you could get some, unh, pot for me to try) and sort of...uh, try some things. What say?"

And he nervously side-eyes the 19 year old, sitting next to him. Who has heard this same sort of proposition enough to make him want to throw up. Salesmen, lawyers, businessmen, always asking him if he has a nice long-hair girlfriend---or maybe, barring that, if he himself doesn't want to play around some. O christ: ask him if he doesn't see himself as the new nigger---with the niggers supposed morality and bedtime habits. Ask him if he isn't---just like every Black who ever lived---getting the million weird and twisted projections of a pink-skinned, well-trimmed, carefully groomed army of white folks just out for a good time.
